About ENERGY STAR® Web Conferences

ENERGY STAR® Energy Management web conferences are held regularly on the third Wednesday of the month from 1:00 PM to 2:30 PM Eastern. Each monthly conference is structured around a different energy management topic that provides a starting point for discussion. The Web conferences are convened for the benefit of ENERGY STAR Partners and provide a forum for sharing successful energy management practices. Recent topics have included: Green Power Strategies, Engaging Employees in Energy Efficiency, Green House Gas Management, and Motor Energy Management.

About ENERGY STAR®

ENERGY STAR® is a federal government program administered by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the Department of Energy (DOE). The program helps businesses and building owners to protect the environment through superior energy efficiency. A key element of ENERGY STAR is EPA's National Energy Performance Rating System for buildings, introduced in 1999. This online benchmarking tool, Portfolio Manager (PM), permits building owners and facility managers to enter specific data (energy consumption, operating hours, occupancy, geographic location) and compare a building's energy performance against the performance of similar buildings across the country.

About EMerge™ Alliance

EMerge™ Alliance Overview

Speakers: Sean Browne, Senior Research Scientist and Jere Myers, Technical Specialist both from Armstrong World Industries Building Products, Technology and Innovation Group will speak about the EMerge Alliance, Armstrong's involvement, and the role that solar plays in the hybrid dc powered buildings concept and infrastructure standard.

Purpose: The EMerge™ Alliance was established in 2008 to create a new power, control and device-level technology standard for commercial interiors, developed around the use of safe, low-voltage direct-current (DC) power from conventional and alternate energy sources, including solar.

Standard: The proposed EMerge standard involves the selective and scalable distribution and use of low-voltage DC power within common infrastructures already present in commercial interiors. Integrating DC power into the workplace provides a means of direct and more efficient connection between on-site alternative energy sources and interior controls and enables commercial buildings to be more flexible, energy efficient and sustainable than ever before.
